If you are looking for a smaller professional meeting at a conference that has it all, the South Central Regional Music Conference in Monroe, Louisiana is the one. I have attended the conference on three different occasions, and the variety of musical activities and information for professional growth is second to none. Honor ensembles in rehearsal; local bands in clinic / adjudication; performances from the finest ensembles in the South; clinic sessions by nationally known professionals and a growing list of publishers and exhibitors.

it's all here!
