The South Central Regional Music Conference is an annual clinic that is educationally sound in its mission. Mark Walker and his staff have created an event that makes students and directors' needs a priority. The sincerity and dedication of the organizers of the SCRMC is quite evident and the icons of our profession are annually invited to share their expertise with attendees. Music directors would be wise to consider this outstanding event for their students and for their own continuing professional development. The SCRMC is a real winner!
